

Acknowledgements

I have never been a fan of lengthy acknowledgements that thank all the humans who have been there on a long and, often, exhausting writer's journey. They know who they are, and if I have not expressed my love and gratitude in person, this won't do much.

Just briefly, to my great academic inspiration, more than a friend – Prof. Lilian Edwards – my gratitude, friendship and love. I have been fortunate to have met you and have had you by my side in completing my PhD and starting an incredible academic adventure.

Death Girl